AGDER UNIVERSITY
KRISTIANSAND, NORWAY

Study Abroad Exchange Program

The academic year or semester abroad program at Agder University in Norway is internationally oriented with students coming from Canada, Europe, India, Indonesia, Bolivia and USA to study. With more than 8000, it is one of the largest universities in Norway. There are three campuses in the towns of Kristiansand, Grimstad and Arendal, all located along the southern coast of Norway.

This exchange program is ideal for liberal arts, business, education and music students. Environmental studies majors may want to consider this destination if interested in Nordic outdoor field studies and education.

Location Facts

Kristiansand, founded in 1641 and known for its commercial and cultural importance, is the largest of the three Agder University campuses. With a population of over 70,000, the town is the fifth largest in Norway. Kristiansand is Norway's second busiest port; Oslo, being the capital, is the first. The town is the administrative centre for the region, and has a rich cultural life. Approximately 5,000 students live and study in Kristiansand, most of them at the new campus which opened in the autumn of 2001.
